

Where microbiology meets automation

Same proven media. New flexible format.

It's time to take full advantage of your automated specimen processing systems with the Thermo Scientific™ Remel™ Media for Automation (MFA) Tubes. Formulated with the same proven media found in traditional glass tubes, these plastic tubes are specifically designed to work with automated specimen processors. It's just one more solution you'll find in the ever-expanding Remel line of prepared media products for automation.

Automation-Friendly

Fit for automated specimen processors, Remel Media for Automation complements specimen automation—maximizing laboratory productivity and reducing the chance of human error.

Comprehensive Media Portfolio

Work closely with Thermo Fisher Scientific microbiology experts to select the media you need to succeed. Available in a wide range of formats and formulations, as well as overnight delivery, for maximum convenience.

Trusted Supplier

We provide support materials to assist with protocols, product transitions or product troubleshooting, and our team of experts is ready to help you. With best-in-class, multi-language technical support, there's no better partner for your business than Thermo Fisher Scientific.
