

XPS Certified Solutions

Certified XPS Instruments

If you are looking for alternative options when it comes to the purchase of X-ray photoelectron spectroscopy (XPS) systems, Thermo Fisher Scientific offers innovative technology that fits your budget. All XPS Certified instruments are tested and certified to meet factory specifications and backed by a one-year warranty. Leasing, renting, service contracts, and training are also available upon request.

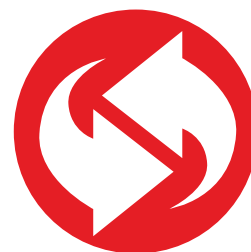

Accessibility

Help us make our innovative technology more accessible at different price points

Reliability

Enjoy peace of mind when purchasing an expertly reconditioned instrument directly from Thermo Fisher Scientific

Sustainability

Contribute to the reduction of electronic waste by purchasing expertly reconditioned equipment

We believe we have a responsibility to actively reduce our impact on the planet while continually seeking new ways to facilitate and accelerate discovery for our customers. As part of Thermo Fisher Scientific's path to Net Zero by 2050, we will plant 100 trees in your name for each XPS Certified reconditioned instrument you purchase. Together, we are making a difference in the world.
